TerrazzoPro – high tech meets antique!

Surface protection for exclusive flooring

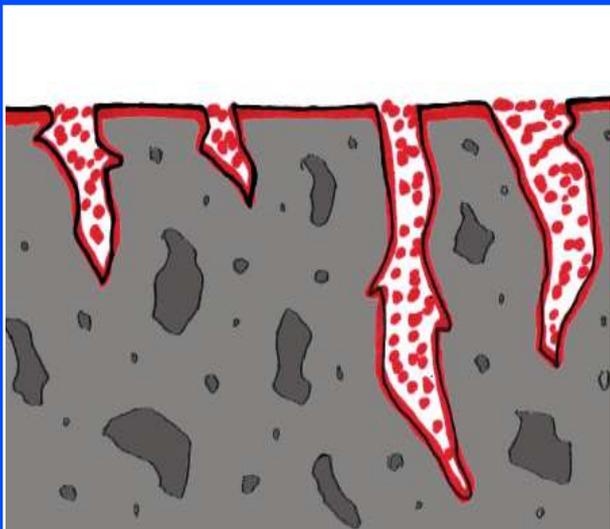

OBTEGO TerrazzoPro is a protection system like those used in industrial environments. The hybrid impregnating sealers can be regarded as something between an impregnation and a surface sealer.

The basis is generally a composition of different silanes that penetrate deep into the surface and a silane-modified, functional polysiloxane (silane-siloxane). With this system, the capillaries are not only lined, but also largely filled, leading to a denser and thus more resilient surface (see drawing). If desired, the surface colour can even be enhanced. OBTEGO TerrazzoPro is strongly water and oil repellent.

A silicate can also be applied between grinding/polishing steps if necessary.

Terrazzo surfaces remain more natural with OBTEGO. The appearance and feel are hardly changed at all, meaning surfaces do not appear as artificial as they would with many competing products.

DesignPro – stylish and safe! ...and for designer floors

Self-levelling compounds and trowelled cement screeds are often promoted for creating designer floors.

Due to their composition, self-levelling compounds in particular often need to be primed before applying the actual protective coat.

The protective products themselves are no different from the OBTEGO TerrazzoPro solution, and thus satisfy the highest demands in this application as well.

Because decorative levelling compounds are rather softer than a cement screed or concrete floor, it is all the more important to clean and care for these floorings properly.

In addition to the impregnation sealers, OBTEGO also offers cleaning and maintenance products developed specifically for designer surfaces.

OBTEGO - On site worldwide!

OBTEGO solutions will be counseled and distributed in Germany exclusively by OBTEGO AG and a few, selected system partners. We set the highest value on professional advice and execution, which is why OBTEGO products are not available for sale in specialty stores either. All over the world, there is a network of partner companies which market OBTEGO solutions in accordance with our requirements. If in your country exceptionally no OBTEGO partner is available, then we take over the consultation and on-site support directly. This is our promise to you for highest OBTEGO quality.
